

CPD Framework leading to a BSc (Hons) in Applied Health Sciences Promoting Health in the Prison Population APPS3129

Nurses entering the prison services are required to manage a range of complex health problems related to the care of prisoners. The overcrowding in prisons is becoming a growing problem for both the health of the prisoners and the nurses who manage their care (RCN 2007). This new exciting module is designed as an induction programme to help nurses entering this diverse and challenging area of health care, adapt to the demands of the role.

Nurses who already work in a prison setting may also find this programme beneficial.

The core content will look at an overview of the key concepts and principles involved in promoting health in the prison population and the challenges this presents to the healthcare practitioner.
