

CPD Framework leading to a BSc (Hons) in Applied Health Sciences Negotiated Learning (Individual – Double) APPS3181

This double module is designed to enable an individual to explore in a critical and reflective way, an aspect of health and/or social care that may include care delivery, professional and political agendas, social policy initiatives and their local interpretations. Students will have the opportunity to extend their knowledge base and establish a learning contract that takes into account the individual learning needs alongside the agenda being explored.

Some students are engaged in activity within the workplace that they can readily utilise to achieve academic credits. Others have particular areas of interest that they wish to explore but cannot do so within the range of specific modules on offer within the University. This module facilitates both situations.
