

CPD Framework leading to a BSc (Hons) in Applied Health Sciences Negotiated Learning (Group – Double) APPS3183

This module is designed to enable a group of students to explore in a critical and reflective way, an aspect of health and/or social care that may include care delivery, professional and political agendas, social policy initiatives and their local interpretations. Students will have the opportunity to extend their knowledge base and participate in establishing a learning contract that takes into account the individuals and groups learning needs alongside the agenda being explored.

Within health and social care, new initiatives are developed which require care providers to develop staff to meet new agendas. This module has been designed to enable the University to respond to student and employer needs through the development of appropriate bespoke provision.
