

Develop your staff

We offer a number of ways for you to improve the professional skills and knowledge base of yourself or your workforce.

Management and leadership development

The Business School has been helping individuals and companies to develop their leadership and management skills for many years. Our executive education programmes are prestigious and innovative and can help you or your staff gain the skills to take your business further.

An industry focused approach

Our approach is to combine the reality of industry with robust academic thinking and this contributes significantly to individual career enhancement – and improving your entire business strategies and operations. The variety of programmes and courses we offer reflects the myriad needs of business, and individual aspirations for career progression. They include:

Full time MBA – suited to early career managers or more experienced people looking to change career direction.

Part time MBA – a more flexible version of the full time MBA course.

Customised programmes – designed in collaboration with partner organisations specifically to meet their staff development needs. Where required, these programmes can lead to qualifications.

Leading to Excellence – short courses you can study on a standalone basis, or as part of a learning pathway leading to a qualification.

Our programmes can help businesses and organisations of all sizes in the public and private sectors, as well as open doors on opportunities for individuals. They are led by leading business academics, benefit from excellent links with industry and commerce all over the world, and are backed by world-class facilities and resources here at Worcester's City Campus.
