

Drama Studio

Our purpose-built Drama Studio has all the facilities you need, whether as a performer or as a producer, from traditional theatre to more experimental performances.

The studio itself is a large, multi-purpose space with a full flexible rig seating more than 100 people. The rig can be assembled in any location in the space to suit performance needs and this flexibility allows students to explore a range of performance and staging styles.

The studio has its own Green Room, Dressing Rooms, Costume and Properties Stores and Scene Dock – all well stocked with resources for students. The surrounding Gallery houses production equipment and a Studio Technician is available to help with the technical side of things.

The Drama Studio is linked to the University of Worcester's new Digital Arts Centre. This exciting development will effectively create a Digitised Performance Laboratory and will mean that students can extend the scope of their work to include live and recorded performances.

Students on the Drama & Performance course, as well as visiting professional companies, Student Union productions, the University of Worcester's Musical Theatre Group and Drama Society, all use the versatile performance space extensively. The studio can be booked by anyone who wants to use it seven days a week.
