

Leading and Managing People

MSAP4071

Recent reviews across Public Services in the UK highlight the need for effective leadership to realise the goals of modern health, social care and public services. This module aims to enable participants to develop their self-awareness and critical understanding of the qualities and strategies required to lead people effectively. Through critical examination and application of leadership theory and people management strategies, it is envisaged that participants will acquire the necessary skills to lead and enhance service delivery in their respective organisations.

This module will be of interest to all health, social care and public service employees who have an interest in positively influencing service delivery through effective leadership.

Assessment:

The assessment strategy for this module is in the form of a 4,000-word essay which will enable participants to critically analyse and develop their leadership styles and qualities through application of contemporary leadership theory.
