Supporting Children with Speech, Language and Communication Needs (SLCN)

Date:

18th June 2021 (10am—3pm)

Venue: University of Worcester

Fee: £90 per delegate

The course tutor is:

Dr Carla Solvason, a senior lecturer at the University of Worcester who has carried out research into supporting young children's speech and language development. In addition to lecturing in this area she has also worked as a consultant for I CAN, the charity which supports children with communication difficulties.

What can you do to support the children who are coming in to your schools and nurseries with poor speech and language? What are some of the impacts of speech and language difficulties upon those children? What is the relationship between communication difficulties, poor self-esteem and behavioural problems?

This one day workshop explores some of these questions and suggests practical, accessible and effective ways to provide support for the children in your care.

Topics covered:

- The prevalence of SLCN
- The impacts of SLCN
- The complexity of speech and language and where problems can arise
- Effective ways to support children with SLCN

These sessions are incredibly popular. Book now to ensure you secure a place and avoid disappointment
